

Without the calculation of interest, the tax payment order is null and void

A tax payment order that lacks an indication of the criteria used for the calculation of the interest on the claimed tax debt must be considered null and void, since the taxpayer who receives it cannot verify the Tax Authority's fairness and accuracy and, therefore, cannot defend himself adequately. ...

For full access to the article, click here.